

New Dividing Lines in Eastern Europe

Challenges to the Western Narrative

Vorlesung | Lecture Series
Wintersemester | Winter 2018/19

Mi, 16-18 Uhr, Osteuropa-Institut, Garystr. 55, Hörsaal A
Wed, 4-6 p.m., IEES, Garystr. 55, Lecture Room A

17.10.2018	Klaus Segbers	New Dividing Lines in (Eastern) Europe: Challenges to the Western Narrative?
24.10.2018	Mitchell A. Orenstein	From Triumph to Crisis: Neoliberal Economic Reform in Postcommunist Countries
31.10.2018	Katharina Bluhm	Konservatismus im Vergleich: Russland – Polen – Ungarn
7.11.2018	Franziska Brantner	Rule of law under threat: What the European Union can do to protect its liberal values
14.11.2018	Burkhard Breig	Tradition, Souveränität, Einheit: Konservative Motive im rechtlichen Diskurs in Russland
21.11.2018	Andrei Y. Melville	The Illiberal World and Russian Liberals
28.11.2018	Alexander Hug	The crisis in and around Ukraine & OSCE's tool: The Special Monitoring Mission to Ukraine – A true contribution to finding an end to violence?
5.12.2018	Georg Witte	Grenzen – eine narrative Kategorie
12.12.2018	Christian Fröhlich	The rise of illiberal civil society in contemporary Russia
19.12.2018	Yuval Weber	Russian Reforms Nine Months In: Healthy Baby or Struggling Parents?
9.1.2019	Maria Polugodina & Julia Zimmermann	Historical borders and contemporary development
16.1.2019	Ioulia Shukan	Euromaidan and its consequences
23.1.2019	Gertrud Pickhan	Alter Wein in neuen Schläuchen? Russischer Nationalismus gestern und heute
30.1.2019	Paweł Machcewicz	Museum of the Second World War in Gdańsk: Battlefield of History and Politics
6.2.2019	Miriam Finkelstein	Your Holocaust, our Holocaust. On the many challenges contemporary Russian-American and Russian-German fiction presents to the Western Holocaust discourse
13.2.2019	Krzysztof Jasiiecki	Conservative Modernization in Poland